Vampire Butler

Vampire Shitsuji

The sound of a voice calling to her woke up Leila. She moved her body, and looked around her but didn't see anybody.

Was it a dream?

The room was dark and terribly cold. The light of the sun didn't pierce the darkness through the curtains yet, the light of the fire in the chimney was gone, and there was no sign that somebody was already up.

"I have to go to the church today, so I better sleep a little more," she thought.

She looked so pale that her family thought that her worries made her very sickly. That's why she has to be able to recover quickly in order to go back to work and reassure her family.

Even though she knew that she couldn't calm down the beats of her heart enough to get some sleep.

Then she heard the sound of a weak voice:

“...Priestess...”

This time, she was certain that she heard something and then the voice called her again:

“Priestess...”

It was a rough voice coming from the outside.

In spite of her fear, she left her bed and came closer to the window. Then she entered the veranda. The cold of the autumn wind swept up her white nightdress into the air, forcing her to shiver. Even though the full moon was still visible, the first ray of light pierced the sky.

“Is it an enemy or...?”

She came closer to the parapet and then looked around the garden. She saw a man walking unsteadily from a corner that had an oil lamp which was already lighted.

“Priestess...could you come here?....,” were the words the man choked up.

That man was definitely not an enemy.

At the moment when that man called her “Priestess ”, something woke up inside her. Then, the sacred light of the sun possessed Leila and woke up a fantastic power: the power of purification.

And right now, that power was essential!

Leila came back inside her room. She was still wearing her white nightdress. She went through a long corridor and then down the stairs. She was running so fast that her feet were barely touching the floor. She disappeared into the darkness of the garden. She smelled the scent of recently mowed grass.

“You...came...”

He was leaning against one of oil lamps and was holding his neck with his hands. He was wearing a uniform for armed forces tailored for a young man. Leila knew him. That man was being searched by the police and he was a former inspector at twenty two years old. He was deeply wounded in an accident but it didn't change a thing to his face's beauty. People called him "Koori* no Darius".

"Inspector Darius..."

His sparkling dark hair was whipping around his face while his blue eyes were staring at her behind his glasses. However, since he was standing way too far from her, the color of his eyes was slightly different.

"I'm glad I saw you..."

What happened to him?

*Koori means ice

Some buttons of his blue uniform were snatched, his hair was in disorder and his breathing was ragged.

“I was attacked by a vampire...”

Darius fell down along the oil lamp until he reaches the floor. Leila kneeled on the grass and touched his hands that were still compressed on his neck.

“Let me see that” she said. Darius slowly released his hands around his neck.

Leila took a deep breath and then raised her eyes to confirm her doubts. Even if she stared again and again at the sky, it was still a full moon. When it was a night of the full moon, the princes of vampires sneaked around the streets in order to extend their tribe. If a vampire prince, those that we call “Sovrano Barentatt”, suck out the blood of a human, he became a “Cleatt”. Barenttats were really strong but they also had great magical power. But Cleatt had weaker power. It was a great honor when a Barentatt chose a Cleatt to teach him the precept of Luna. However, Darius was different. Vampires didn't want him just to suck his blood.

“Could you purify me?”

There wasn't a trace of fear in Darius's voice.

“Were you attacked by a Cleatt?”

If it was a Cleatt, he won't turn into a vampire. Cleatt were just sucking blood out of their victims but only vampires with magical power were really dangerous. If they left a small part of their magic in the bloodstream of the victim, then the sun will be able to incinerate the victim. But that's not the only danger: if a vampire ever uses his power on a human, he could make the human crazy and make him lose his humanity. That's why victims should be purified as soon as possible.

“If the one who did that was a Barentatt...you’ll be reduced to ashes.”

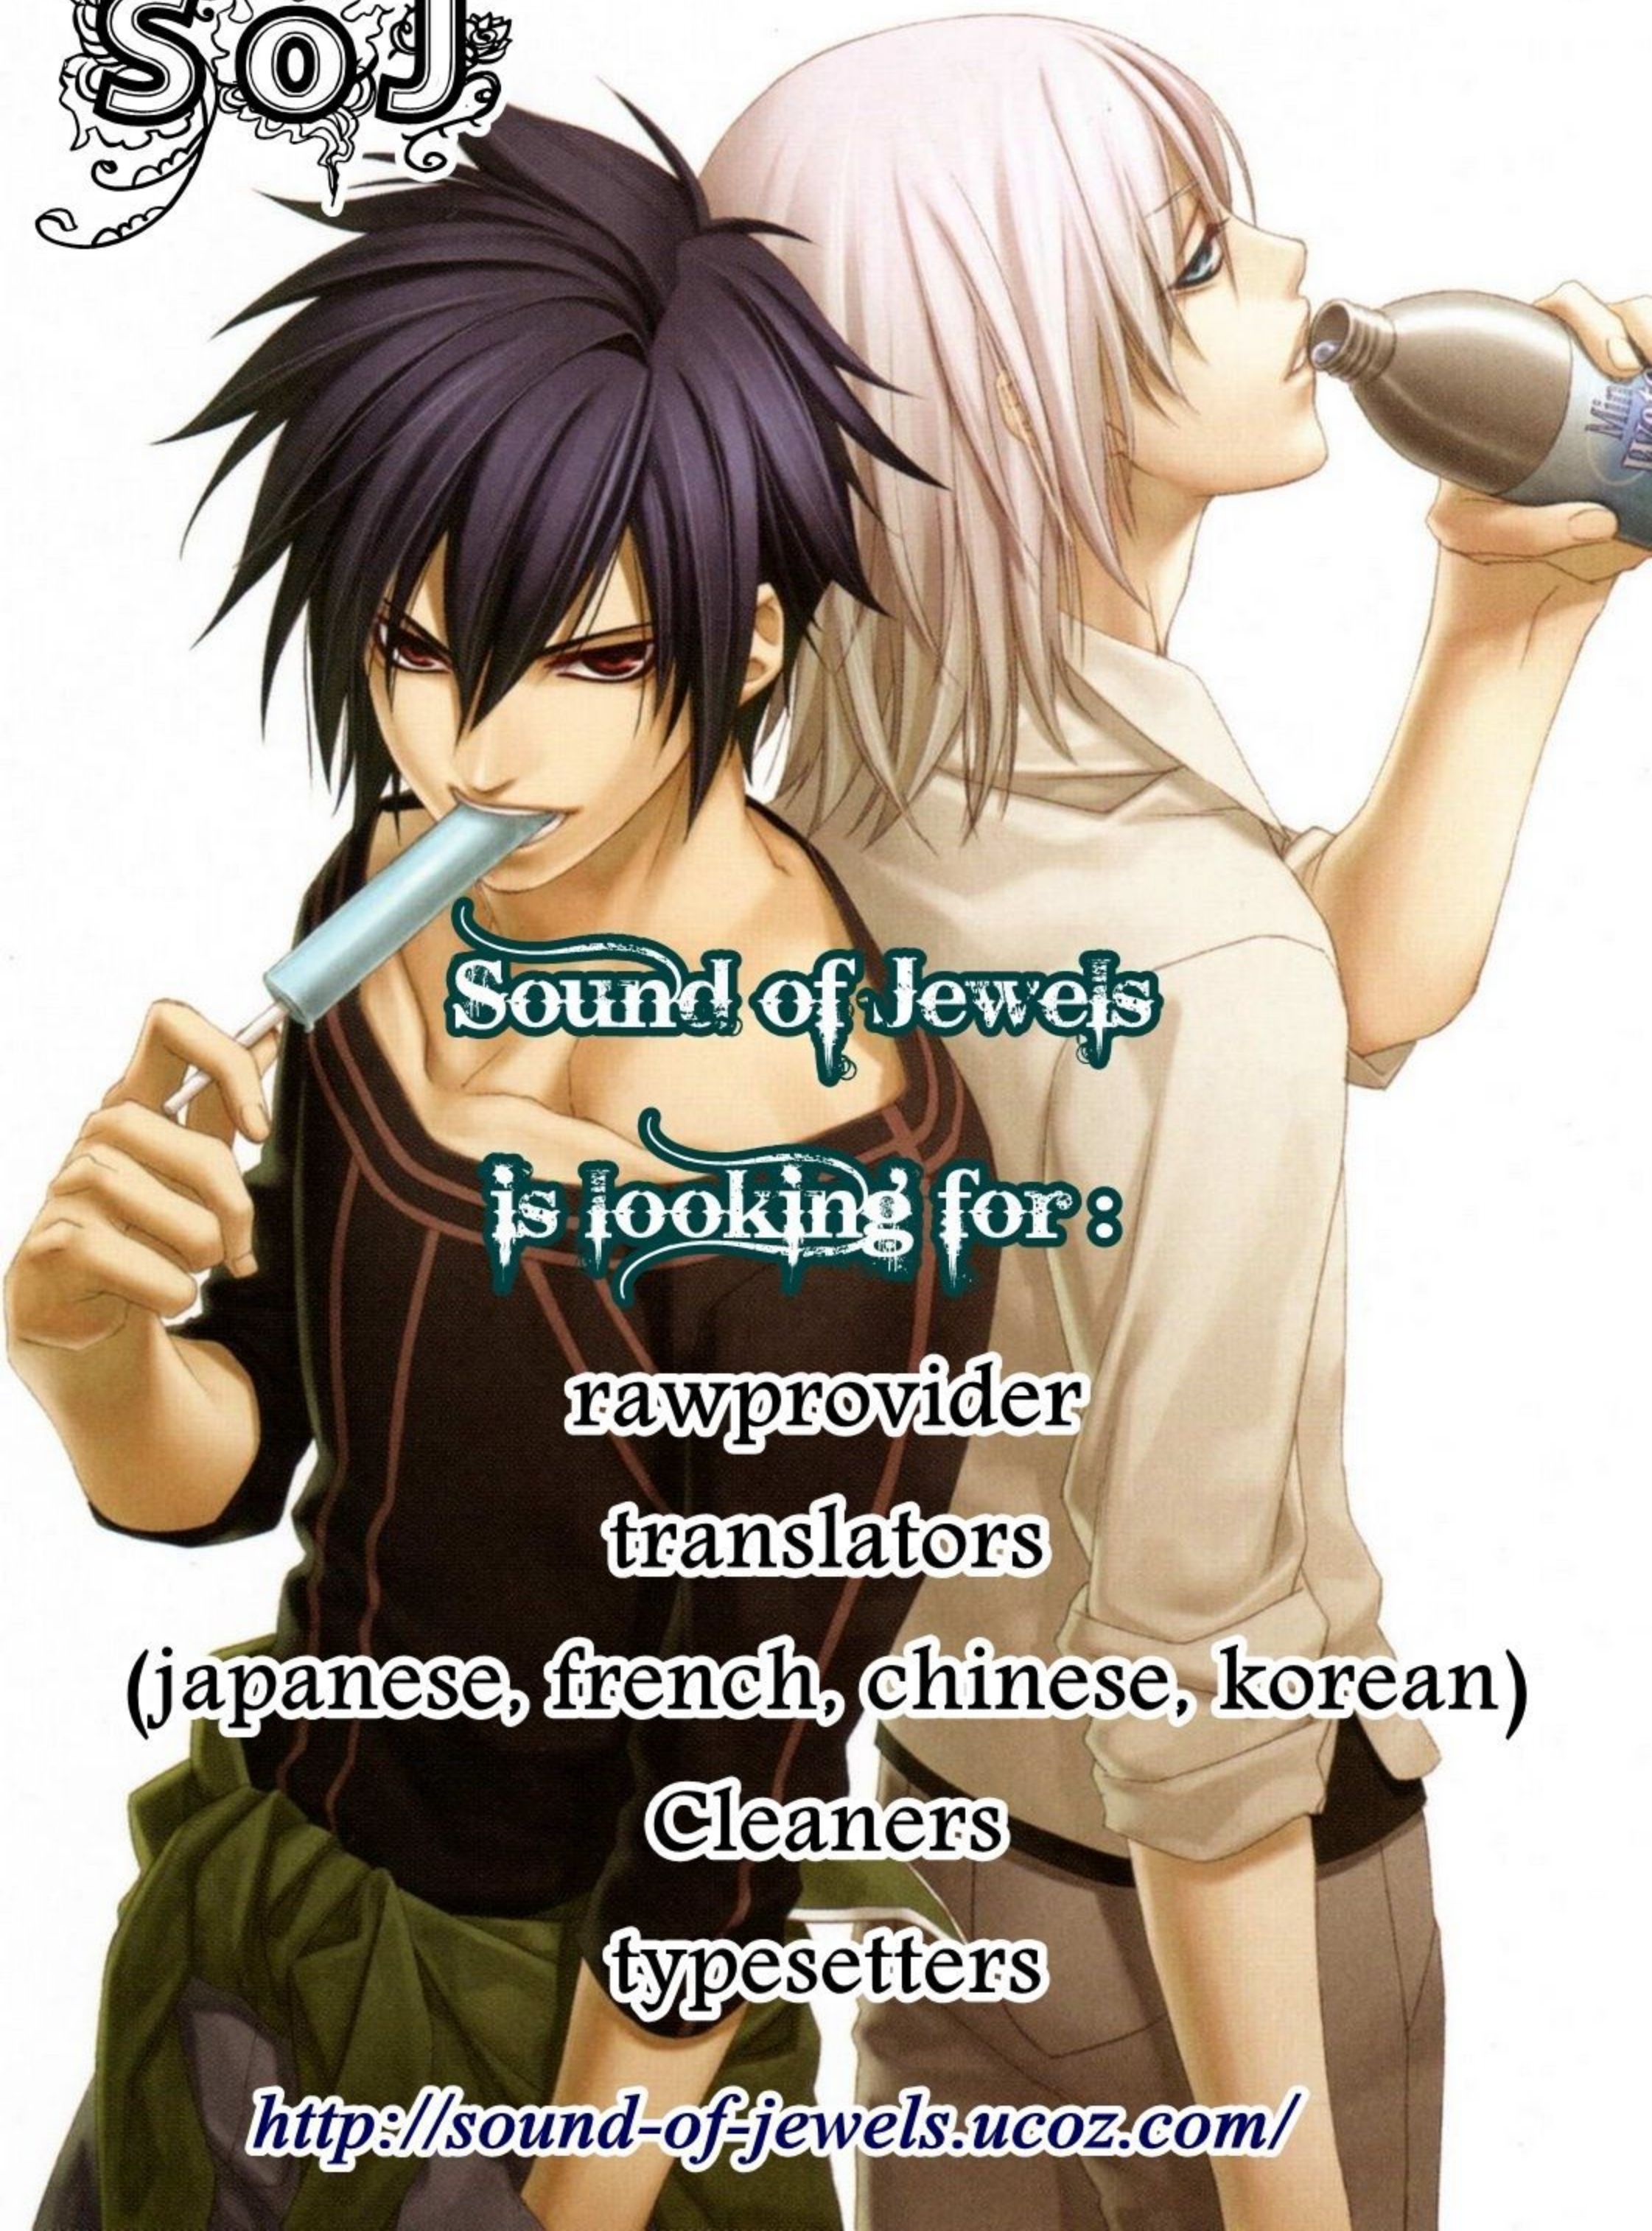

Yes, the power of purification was double-edged. If there still was a trace of magic coming from a vampire in the body, then the power of purification will detect it and reduce them to ashes.

“I know but...if the one who attacked me was a Barentatt, then I will become a vampire...”

So he came even though he already knew that.

“I see...so you already made your decision, didn’t you?”
